"The skills required to conquer adversity and emerge stronger and more committed than ever are the same ones that make for extraordinary leaders." HBR

42 is the average age most managers begin formal leadership training, about 10 years after they begin supervising people. Imagine if we could offer leadership training to young people about to start their lives as adults, and the difference it could make to their ability to face the challenges that await them.

A crucible is, by definition, a transformative experience through which an individual comes to a new or an altered sense of identity.

Not everyone has the opportunity to choose their crucible where they can learn the hard truths about themselves and the skills to lead in a safe and positive environment. Today's young people are facing enormous world challenges that require a new kind of leadership and different skills to face the challenges of the 'Fourth Industrial Revolution' and the future political and environmental landscapes. According to the World Economic Forum, a future workforce will require the following skills:

- Critical thinking
- Creativity
- Active learning with a growth mindset
- Interpersonal communication skills
- Emotional intelligence
- Judgment and decision making
- Leadership
- Diversity & cultural intelligence
- Embracing Change
- Technology skills

We'll provide 9 out of 10 of those foundational skills

WHO IS SIR RANULPH FIENNES?

Sir Ranulph Fiennes has been titled by the Guinness book of Records as the 'Worlds greatest living explorer'.

He was first to reach both Poles and first to cross Antarctic and Arctic Ocean (both with Charles Burton), first to circumnavigate the world along its polar axis and entirely by surface travel and led the first hovercraft expedition up the longest river in the world (the Nile) in 1968/1969. He also achieved a world record for unsupported northerly polar travel in 1990 and a world first in 1992/1993 by completing the first unsupported crossing of the Antarctic Continent with Mike Stroud. This was the longest unsupported polar journey in history.

WHY THE FIENNES LEADERSHIP CHALLENGE?

On an expedition to recreate the Livingston Expedition in Africa, Sir Fiennes confided in the expedition artist Guy Hammond that he was constantly approached by young people wanting to learn to be explorers and adventurers. He was also approached by parents of young people who wanted their child to have an opportunity for real character growth through a physical adventure. Unfortunately, he was unable to assist in these areas, however it got him thinking about how he could make a positive impact in the growth and development of young people through adventure. Through Guy's contact in Australia at Outback Initiatives, the Fiennes Leadership Challenge was born.

The Fiennes Leadership Challenge is an 11 day 'crucible' experience in the beautiful Kimberley region for emerging leaders. All participants will receive 6 months mentoring & 12 months on-line support & further training in conflict management, negotiation, and be a part of the Outback community.

If deemed suitable, participants may be offered mentorship training and working with us as youth leaders in the future.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND?

This is not a 'walk in the park'. Only those committed to their personal growth & positive community change will be considered

We are looking to create highly effective future leaders, and as such, we are offering this opportunity to young people who already have a strong commitment to their community through volunteer work and/or have a strong commitment to creating positive change in their communities and the world. They do not need to be physically fit (though that will help with fatigue), and the program is not biased towards fitness, gender, culture or religion. The ideal participant is passionate about change, and mature enough to know they need to learn the skills to help them get where they want to be, to achieve what they need to achieve.

We are highly a professional and experienced provider of leadership training to international companies & paramilitary organisations including the prestigious Gurkhas for over 26 years.

THE OUTBACK INITIATIVES PROCESS

Fortunately, not all crucible experiences are traumatic. In fact, they can involve a positive, if deeply challenging, experience which forces participants out of their comfort zone. Through carefully orchestrated consequence-based, problem solving activities, participants learn the practical aspects of working with and leading people and making decisions with limited time, information and resources.

OUTDOOR LEARNING

Our residential leadership programs take place outdoors in rural and remote regions to challenge people to step outside of their comfort zones. Staff are experienced and well-trained to ensure the physical and emotional safety of participants at all times.

ACTIVITY-DEBRIEF-REFLECTION-TRANSFER CYCLE

Every activity is followed by a debrief that addresses lessons learned and reflection on opportunities for improvement. This cycle is repeated to provide a safe environment for making mistakes and applying new problem solving approaches. All activities are conducted with the participants physical and emotional safety in mind.

FEEDBACK

Giving feedback is a critical leadership skill, and something that most of us struggle with.

All participants are trained to give and receive effective and honest feedback. Each activity on the program requires a new team leader who will be leading the team through the challenge. Once the activity is over, and after the debrief, feedback will be given to the team leader on their leadership style and effectiveness. At the end of the program, participants undergo further coaching to address the 'leadership gaps' and develop a strategy for addressing the gaps identified. Post program support and accountability to an external source will assist with achieving the desired behavioural change. The ongoing mentoring and network interaction will also support positive growth.
